Mobile Instrument Service and Repair Canada Acquires Med Opt-Tech Repair Services to be Provided by Keir Surgical Instrument Repair

OSHAWA, July 31st, 2020 – Mobile Instrument Service and Repair (Canada) Ltd. (“MISR”), a division of Pacific Surgical and privately-held Canadian provider of On-Site and Off-Site surgical instrument repair and maintenance services, is pleased to announce the acquisition of Med Opt-Tech.

Med Opt-Tech, based in Saint-Eustache, Quebec, has been repairing telescopes and minimally invasive surgical instruments for over 25 years and has established itself as a reliable regional partner for repair services.

Keir Surgical Instrument Repair, sister company to MISR with repair services provided by MISR, will assume responsibility for overseeing the ongoing repair services to Med Opt-Tech customers.

“Keir Surgical Instrument Repair is excited to increase our presence, particularly within the province of Quebec, and expand our capabilities to repair telescopes and surgical instruments”, said Patrick Haney, President of Keir Surgical. “We will work hard to ensure a successful and smooth transition and continue our mission to provide unparalleled equipment and instrument servicing to hospitals and clinics across Canada.”

Robert Tremblay and Dominick Morrone, owners/founders of Med Opt-Tech, further add, “We are thrilled to join the larger Pacific Surgical family and see our combined business grow nationally”.

“The acquisition of Med Opt-Tech supports our objective to be the premier surgical products and services company in Canada”, said Michael Fish, President of Pacific Surgical.

Effective July 31st, Med Opt-Tech customers wishing to order telescope and surgical instrument repairs should contact Keir Surgical Instrument Repair as follows:
